CHILD SUPPORT GUIDELINES

N.B.: THESE GUIDELINES APPLY TO CHILD SUPPORT ONLY. THEY DO NOT APPLY TO ALIMONY OR THE DIVISION OF MARITAL PROPERTY OR WHERE THE PARTIES HAVE MADE AN AGREEMENT FOR CHILD SUPPORT WHICH IS APPROVED BY THE COURT.

These guidelines are promulgated under the authority granted by Chapter 310 of the Acts of 1986, which amended Chapter 211B by adding section 15. They are interim guidelines for use through December 31, 1987.

The child support guidelines were formulated to be used by the justices of the Trial Court, whether the parents of the children are married or unmarried, in setting temporary orders, permanent or final orders for child support, and also in cases that are before the court to modify existing orders. They are intended to be of assistance to members of the bar and to litigants in determining what level of support is expected given the relative incomes of the parties.

In establishing the guidelines, due consideration has been given to the views provided by the members of the Committee on Child Support Guidelines as they relate to the following principles enumerated in G.L. c. 211B sec. 15 as inserted by Chapter 310 of the Acts of 1986:

1) To minimize the economic impact on the child of family breakup;
2) To encourage joint parental responsibility for child support in proportion to, or as a percentage of income;
3) To provide the standards of living the child would have enjoyed had the family been intact;
4) To meet a child's survival needs in the first instance, but to the extent either parent enjoys a higher standard of living entitle the child to enjoy that higher standard;
5) To protect a subsistence level of income of parents at the low end of the income range whether or not they are on public assistance;
6) To take into account the non-monetary contributions of the custodial and non-custodial parent;
7) To minimize problems of proof for the parties and of administration for the courts; and
8) To allow for orders and wage assignments that can be adjusted as income increases or decreases.

I. INCOME DEFINITION

For purposes of these guidelines, income is defined as gross income from whatever source. Those sources include but are not limited to the following:

1) salaries and wages (including overtime and tips) and income from self-employment
2) commissions
3) severance pay
4) royalties
5) bonuses
6) interest and dividends
7) income derived from businesses/partnerships
8) social security
9) veteran's benefits
10) insurance benefits (including those received for disability and personal injury)
11) worker's compensation
12) unemployment compensation
13) pensions
14) annuities
15) income from trusts
16) capital gains in real and personal property transactions to the extent that they represent a regular source of income
17) spousal support received from a person not a party to the order
18) contractual agreements
19) perquisites or in kind compensation to the extent that they represent a regular source of income
20) unearned income of children
21) income from life insurance or endowment contracts
22) income from interest in an estate (direct or through a trust)
23) lottery or gambling winnings received either in a lump sum or in the form of an annuity
24) prizes and awards
25) net rental income

II. FACTORS TO BE CONSIDERED IN SETTING THE CHILD SUPPORT ORDER

A. RELATIONSHIP TO ALIMONY OR SEPARATE MAINTENANCE PAYMENTS

So long as the standard of living of the children is not diminished, these guidelines do not preclude the court from deciding that any order be denominated in whole or in part as alimony or a separate maintenance payment.

B. CLAIMS OF PERSONAL EXEMPTIONS FOR CHILD DEPENDENTS

In setting a support order, the court may make an order regarding the claims of personal exemptions for child dependents between the parties to the extent permitted by law.

C. MINIMUM AND MAXIMUM LEVELS

The guidelines recognize the principle that, in many instances, to maintain a domicile and a reasonable standard of living for the minor children, the custodial parent will choose to work. In those cases, a disregard of gross income of the custodial parent is to be applied up to a maximum of $15,000. The formula in these guidelines is intended to be adjusted where the income of the custodial parent exceeds the $15,000 disregard after consideration of day care expenses.

These guidelines are also intended to ensure a minimum subsistence level for those non-custodial parents whose income is less than $200 per week. However, it is the obligation of all parents to contribute to the support of their children. To that end, in all cases, a minimum order of $50.00 per month should be set. This minimum order corresponds to the $50.00 disregard of support payments that is passed through to families receiving Aid to Families With Dependent Children mandated by Federal law. Where the court makes a determination that either or both of the parties is either purposely unemployed or underemployed, the section of this guideline entitled ATTRIBUTION OF INCOME should be consulted. These guidelines are not meant to apply where the combined gross income of the parties exceeds $100,000 or where the gross income of the non-custodial parent exceeds $75,000.

D. CUSTODY AND VISITATION

1) Custody

These guidelines are based upon traditional custody and visitation arrangements. Where the parties agree to shared physical custody or the court determines that shared physical custody is in the best interests of the children, these guidelines are not applicable. The guidelines are also not meant to apply for cases in which there is split physical custody, i.e., each parent has physical custody of one or more children.

2) Visitation

These guidelines recognize that children must be allowed to enjoy the society and companionship of both parents to the greatest extent possible. The court may adjust the amount of child support beyond the 2 percent range (see Basic Order, Section III A) after taking into consideration the parties' actual time sharing with the children and the relative resources, expenses, and living standards of the two households.

E. CHILD CARE AS DEFINED BY INTERNAL REVENUE CODE SECTION 21

The basic child support obligation set out in the guidelines includes the non-custodial parent's share of day care expenses. Child care expenses are not seen as a separate support item and responsibility for them resides with the custodial parent.

The reasonable cost of day care actually paid is to be subtracted from the custodial parent's gross income before the disregard formula is applied.

F. AGE OF THE CHILDREN

To reflect the costs of raising children, age has been broken down into three groups: 0-6, 7-12, 13 and over. A single adjustment to the basic order should be made based on the age of the oldest child. The support order where the oldest child is six or under should be the basic support order according to the schedule. Where the oldest child is 7-12, the order should be increased by 10 percent of the basic order amount. Where the oldest child is 13 or older, the order should be increased by 15 percent of the basic order amount.

G. HEALTH INSURANCE, UNINSURED, AND EXTRAORDINARY MEDICAL EXPENSES

1) Health Insurance

By statute, when the court makes an order for child support, and the child is not covered by a private group health insurance plan, the court shall make a determination whether the obligor under the order has health insurance on a group plan available to him through an employer or organization that may be extended to cover the child for whom support is ordered. When the court makes a determination that the obligor has such coverage, the court shall include in the support order a requirement that the obligor exercise the option of additional coverage in favor of such child. The support order should be reduced by the obligor's actual cost of group health insurance.

2) Routine Uninsured Medical and Dental Expenses

The custodial parent shall be responsible for the payment of the first $100 per child per year for routine medical and dental expenses. For amounts above that limit, the court shall allocate costs on a case by case basis. No reduction in the child support order should be allowed.

3) Uninsured Extraordinary Medical and Dental Expenses

The payment of uninsured extraordinary medical and dental expenses incurred by the minor children, absent agreement of the parties, shall be treated on a case by case basis. (Example: psychological/psychiatric counseling, orthodontia, etc.) In such cases, where the court makes a determination that such medical and dental services are necessary and are in the best interests of the child, consideration toward a reduction in the child support order should be given.

H. ATTRIBUTION OF INCOME

If the court makes a determination that either or both parties is earning substantially less than he or she could through reasonable effort, the court may consider potential earning capacity rather than actual earnings. In making this determination, the court shall take into consideration the education, training, and past employment history of the party. These standards are intended to be applied where a finding has been made that the party is capable of working and is unemployed, working part-time or is working a job, trade, or profession other than that for which he has been trained.

This determination is not intended to apply to a custodial parent with children living in the home who are under the age of six or who chooses to be home with the children when they are not in school.

I. PRIOR ORDERS FOR SUPPORT

To the extent that prior orders for spousal and child support are actually being paid, the court should deduct those payments from the gross income before applying the formula to determine the child support order.

III. CHILD SUPPORT OBLIGATION SCHEDULE

A. BASIC ORDER

The basic child support obligation, based upon the income of the non-custodial parent is as follows. The percentages are intended only as a guide to the court.

GROSS WEEKLY INCOME	NUMBER OF CHILDREN
	1	2	3
$ 0 - $200	Discretion of the court, but no less than $50.00 per month
$201 - $500	25% (±2%)	28% (±2%)	31% (±2%)
$501 - max.	27% (±2%)	30% (±2%)	33% (±2%)

Within the discretion of the court, and in consideration of the totality of the circumstances of the parties, the order may be either increased or decreased by 2 percent. Where the court must set a support order where there are more than three children, the minimum order is to be no less than that contained in this guideline for three children, to be increased within the discretion of the court depending upon the circumstances of each case.

B. AGE DIFFERENTIAL

The above orders are to be increased to reflect the costs of raising older children.

AGE OF OLDEST CHILD	PERCENTAGE INCREASE
0 - 6	Basic Order Applies
7 - 12	Basic Order + 10% of Basic Order
13 - 18	Basic Order + 15% of Basic Order

C. CUSTODIAL PARENT INCOME ADJUSTMENT

Where the custodial parent works and earns income in excess of $15,000 after consideration of day care expenses, the support order is to be reduced by the percentage that the excess represents in relation to the combined incomes of both parents minus the custodial parent's disregard.
